Program Overview

When leaders take personal ownership of their organization's goals and accept responsibility for their own performance, they become more invested and work at a higher level to ensure not only their own success, but everyone's. The Oz Principle defines leadership accountability as "a personal choice to rise above one's circumstances and demonstrate the ownership necessary for achieving desired results". This interactive session details how people and organizations, armed with attitudes of accountability, can overcome the obstacles, excuses and biases that keep them from getting the results they need.

Program Objectives

1. Recognize below the line and above the line thinking and mindset
2. Identify the 4 core principles of leadership accountability
3. Identify strategies to increase your own personal leadership accountability
